Catholic Charities Day At

Dodger Stadium April 23

Plans have been completed for the second annual Catholic Charities Day at Dodger Stadium, to be held on Sunday, April 23, with groups coming by bus to the ball park from nine locations in Los Angeles County. After the game, each group will return to the original starting point for refreshments and dinner. The areas are Long Beach, Foothill, Verdugo Hills, Whittier, Pomona, San Fernando, South Bay, Santa Monica, and Los Angeles. The starting point in Los Angeles is Holy Name Parish Auditorium at Jefferson Boulevard and Cimarron Street.

Under the co-sponsorship of several branch boards of directors of the Catholic Welfare Bureau and three branches of the Bureau's auxiliary, known as ACT (The Association for Charitable Tasks), the event will be a complete day of fun for any or all members of a family. In each area the funseekers will gather about 10:30 a.m. for chatting and light refreshments. Shortly after 11 o'clock they will board the buses for the drive right up to the gate. After the game, the return trip will be made by bus for further refreshments and a dinner prepared by a committee of the Board of ACT. The purpose of the event is to raise funds for support of the program of the Catholic Welfare Bureau in this area which provides case-work counseling and services for individuals and families in need of assistance with marital, child behavior, and unwed parenthood problems, faster home care and emergency financial aid. Tickets for the event include the roundtrip by bus to Dodger Stadium, a reserve seat with the group at the game and the dinner afterwards. Electric cooking is so clean, you could eat off the bottom of the pan.

Electric cooking doesn't blacken pots and pans. Or kitchen walls. Or ceilings. Or curtains. Reason: electric cooking is flameless. Another boon: top-of-the-range control is so exact butter melts without burning, and heat is so evenly distributed foods get cooked without constant stirring.

Many of the new electric ranges have self-cleaning ovens. Imagine never having to do that dirty job again! See all the new, clean-cooking electric ranges at your appliance dealer's today. Modernize your kitchen with a flameless electric range.
